film school

Register now for June 24 - July 3, 2013

Want to make a DIFFERENCE? Want to travel, get outside, go EXPLORE, and share important stories with the world? Ready to get creative? Love film? Let's GO!

The Odyssey Institute has teamed up with legendary film makers at The Paradigm Shift Project to create a brand new film school in South East Asia for young film makers from all around the world.

the course

Make your own film from start to finish in 10 days! We'll cover everything from research to distribution. All films focus on a social or environmental theme to raise awareness about pressing issues, like conservation of natural resources, climate change, sustainable livelihoods, traditional culture, agriculture, and so much more. You'll learn how to find your story and get the shots you need, while refining your creative and artistic vision to reach your target audience. Learn how to integrate photography, music, effects, and social media marketing to maximize the impact of your film. Learn how to create a film that can be used for multiple purposes, like education, advocacy, and fundraising. Learn valuable skills in researching, interviewing, editing, and the ethics and best practices for filmmaking in different social, cultural, and physical environments. And, gain valuable experience for your future career! Most of all, learn about your passion and your voice as a filmmaker and how you can be an agent of change.

the location

Our first session is in Ubud, Bali, an area rich in social and environmental stories. Students will be immersed in Bali's cultural centre, surrounded by a landscape of lush rice fields and traditional artisan villages, which contrast with the rapid development, tourism, and outside influence the small town is experiencing. We will be intimately connected to both nature and the city, and the local changemakers working on various social and environmental issues there. Our field trips will take us deeper into Bali's unique cultural and physical landscapes.

the facilitators

Ben Tamblyn

Ben is the Founder of The Odyssey Institute and has been designing and leading learning adventures for over 15 years.

"This one's going to be amazing!" Ben says. "I love the blend of travel adventure and technical skill development whilst focusing on real-world issues. If you're ready to dive in and look at solutions, this is an amazing way to learn!"

Rebecca Sweetman

Rebecca is the Founder of The Paradigm Shift Project, a not-for-profit organization that makes educational documentary films to inform and inspire social change. With 13 years experience in film and sustainable development, Rebecca works with innovative changemakers to share solutions to the world's toughest social and environmental justice issues through film and photography.

"I'm so excited to work with the next generation of changemakers, and give them new tools to share their important opinions on how we can make the world a better place, while still offering deep insight on pressing issues," Rebecca says. "If you're looking to create your story with new media and share it to have an impact, this unique in-the-field film school will give you solid skills to make inspiring movies that matter!"
